

Behrooz Fattahi

Heavy Oil Development Coordinator, Aera Energy LLC

Dr. Behrooz Fattahi is the Heavy Oil Development Coordinator at Aera Energy LLC, a California exploration and production company jointly owned by affiliates of Shell and ExxonMobil. He began his industry career in 1977 at the Oil Service Company of Iran and worked as a Reservoir Engineer, Reservoir Engineering Manager and Team leader for OSCO/Shell International, Shell

Western E&P, Shell Offshore, and Shell-affiliate CalResources. Prior to joining the petroleum industry, he conducted research for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the National Science Foundation and taught courses in fluid dynamics and solid mechanics at Iowa State University. He is a past member of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics and American Association of University Professors.

Dr. Fattahi served as the Executive Editor of the SPE Reservoir Evaluation and Engineering Journal. He served on the Board of the Society as the Director of the Western North America Region (2004-2006), and was the Chairman of the SPE Continuing Education Committee (1999-2001), Chairman of the San Joaquin Valley SPE Section (2001-2002), and a member of SPE President's Learning Initiatives Task Force (2002). He is also a former Chairman of the Greater Bakersfield Chamber of Commerce Energy Committee. He holds PhD degrees in Aerospace Engineering and Mechanical Engineering from Iowa State University.